KIRSTY MITCHELL

Kirsty Mitchell graduated from Ravensbourne College of Art, interned with avant-garde designer Alexander McQueen, and then spent the next decade as senior designer for fashion label Karen Millen. After losing her mother in 2008, she immersed herself in photography to help process her grief and decided to leave her fashion career behind in 2011 to produce Wonderland: Photographs by Kirsty Mitchell, on display at the Museum of Art - DeLand through April. Inspired by her mother's passion for fairy tales, this series of photographs depicts handcrafted costumes and props in fantastical scenes set in the lush English countryside. Completed in 2014, Wonderland: Photographs by Kirsty Mitchell has been exhibited in the United States, the United Kingdom, Sweden, South Korea, Italy, Spain and the Netherlands. Adorning our cover is The Stars of Spring Will Carry You Home.

VICTOR BOKAS

ARTIST

Visitors from around the world are greeted at Orlando International Airport by an impressive 85-foot-long mosaic, the work of local artist Victor Bokas. The mosaic floor, titled Florida Vacation, is masterfully rendered in natural stone and glazed enamel by Italian artisans. Another of Victor's artworks, a wall installation, can be found in Terminal C. Victor's art is also featured in several galleries around the U.S., Orlando City Hall, Orange County Convention Center, the Maitland Art & History Museum, and in private collections across the country. The only artist to be chosen twice for the Winter Park Sidewalk Art Festival poster, Victor draws inspiration from the vibrant and colorful landscape of his home state of Florida. His career path over the past 35 years includes senior art director roles at both SeaWorld and Tupperware Brands.

She is reaching out to open a highly ornate, dark-colored door with intricate carvings and a large, decorative handle. The door is framed by a heavy, carved archway. The entire scene is surrounded by dense green foliage, including large-leafed plants and vines with small flowers. Sunlight filters through the leaves, creating a magical, ethereal atmosphere. The overall style is reminiscent of a fairytale or a classic painting.

WONDER LAND

MUSEUM OF ART — DELAND
ON EXHIBITION THROUGH APRIL

Created over the past eight years, Wonderland: Photographs by Kirsty Mitchell is a hauntingly beautiful portrayal of fairy-tale fantasies born out of the grief the artist experienced after the tragic passing of her mother. A trained fashion designer, Mitchell combined these design talents with a newfound passion for photography as she poured herself into this project, using childhood memories, overwhelming grief, and her connection to nature in the verdant landscape of rural England to create a visual storybook of emotion.

"Wonderland is a story of love, loss, bereavement, resilience and renewal that resonates on a universal level," says Pam Coffman, curator of education at the Museum of Art - DeLand, which is among the first organizations to introduce Mitchell to American museum audiences.

Featuring a selection of large-scale works accompanied by videos documenting the artist's creative process, the exhibition has garnered a slew of international buzz from Harper's Bazaar, Vogue Italia, and BBC News, among others.

"When I sat in my kitchen sewing the first rough costume, nothing could've prepared me for the journey ahead," says Mitchell. "What started as a desperate distraction from the pain of reality led to a dramatic turning point in my career and, consequently, my entire life."

THE ART OF INTERIOR DESIGN

Founded in 1975, the American Society of Interior Designers (ASID) is the oldest, largest and only multidisciplinary professional organization for interior designers, interior design students, and the manufacturers and suppliers who support this dynamic profession. Committed to interior design excellence in a global marketplace, the ASID Florida North Chapter collaborates with others to promote the value of interior design, preparing members — from the brightest newcomers to the wisest pioneers — to excel in a dynamic industry that's always evolving. Through education, knowledge sharing, advocacy, community building and outreach, ASID strives to advance the interior design field by demonstrating and celebrating the power of design to positively change people's lives.

THE VALUE OF ASID

“Much like design, ASID continues to impact my life in many unique ways, whether it’s meeting new designers and industry partners at the local, state, and national levels, advocating for practice rights in Florida, or researching articles that reinforce how design impacts lives and the human experience. This organization offers numerous opportunities to expand your professional network while connecting you to like-minded individuals who practice in all types of design markets. I am often reminded of the complexity and diversity of this field when I get to interact with so many talented people and see their positive contributions to the profession.”

KELLEY ROBINSON
NCIDQ, ASID, IDEC,
LEED Green Associate
President, ASID Florida North Chapter

“As a student member I was able to learn the value of the profession, and as an Allied member I have grown professionally and personally. My personal belief in community over competition has strengthened as I’ve had the opportunity to work on legislative affairs, investing in our members through local continuing education units and the ability to build relationships with other designers and industry partners in our design community.”

SELECTING AN INTERIOR DESIGNER

We recently sat down with a select group of industry leaders in the interior design space to get their take on everything from why it's important to hire an interior designer and how to select one to what's new in the world of outdoor design for the spring and summer season and what's trending in patterns and textures for 2020.

LISA GIELINCKI

ASID, NCIDQ
Owner/Principal Designer,
Lisa Gielincki Interior Design

"An interior designer can save you money. They're trained and have years of experience in selecting finishes and furnishings and understand scale, balance, color, and patterns. If a designer has an aesthetic that appeals to you, schedule a meeting in person to see if they communicate well with you and if your project is a good fit for them. Then reach out to some of the designers' references and ask questions like how they handled budget and what the time frame was like. This year I'm seeing a trend in florals, and natural, woven textures are showing up in light fixtures and furnishings. Outdoor design is benefitting from the technology in the fabric industry, which is giving us the opportunity to make exterior spaces look just like your living room."

AMBER CLORE

ASID, NCIDQ, CAPS
Owner, A.Clore Interiors
Past President, ASID FL North

"While there are several outlets to choose a designer, a great start is the ASID Florida North website. Working with a certified interior designer means you get the benefit of an experienced professional who can solve problems, help you avoid costly mistakes, and create an attractive, affordable space designed specifically to meet your needs. As technology and motorization are in more demand, we're seeing a lot more requests for home automation and smart home compatibility. As for décor, natural textures are making their way into the foreground of the space, wallpaper's making a comeback, and clients want cozy, environmentally friendly outdoor spaces with killer summer kitchens."

GRANT GRIBBLE

IIDA FASID
Owner, Gribble Interiors
Past President, ASID FL North

"Establishing a relationship with your designer based on trust and mutual respect is one of the most important elements in creating great design. Interior designers bring extensive knowledge and experience to the table and can truly create a better quality of life for their clients. On the rise are large-scale patterns and textures combining multiple materials. Exterior textiles have become more interior-looking in appearance, and I recommend solution-dyed fabrics over print textiles."

LOUIS TARANTINO

President,
Carpet Source

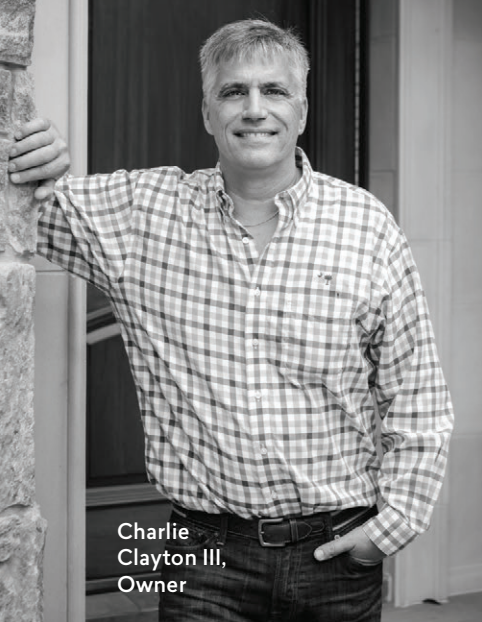

"Selecting a designer can be similar to dating. When you look at portfolios, does the work excite you? If so, it's time to set up a first meeting. Then if your personalities blend, it's really time to talk. You'll spend a lot of time together during a project, so you better like each other's company. In terms of trending patterns, I see more of a trend in the absence of pattern, which is where texture comes in. A skilled designer can create such an amazing space by using nothing but color and texture. In outdoor design, the lines between inside and out are being blurred by the architecture and abundance of fabric, furniture and rugs that are soft and durable enough to withstand the elements."

BARBARA KRUPP

ARTIST

Acrylic artist Barbara Krupp is inspired by colors and shapes and uses the structure of a painting as her guide. In her most recent series “Abstract Stories,” she has allowed the bones of the painting — both compositionally and metaphorically — to become the subject matter. Much as with Georgia O’Keeffe, Krupp has come to realize that the significance in her paintings is not in the forms themselves but rather in the spaces between them. “Abstract Stories” is the culmination of a more than 40-year career perfecting the sensuous use of color on canvas.

SCULPTED POETRY

ROGER QUESTEL

In an impressive career that spans more than 40 years, designer and sculptor Roger Questel has expertly manipulated wood, metal, clay, and stone to fashion everything from decorative vessels and architectural installations to intricately carved sculptures commissioned for the likes of Ralph Lauren and Orson Wells. "For me, sculpture is a way to develop a narrative using tools and materials, much like creating a poem," he says. "I'm drawn to the notion of revealing the passage of time either through a sense of motion or the textures and signatures of age."

In 1990, the forward-thinking designer added inventor and entrepreneur to his body of achievements, devising a lightweight, eco-friendly metal composite — now immortalized in the permanent collection at the Smithsonian Institute's national museum of design in New York — and founding Questech Corporation, which develops a host of products in the home-décor and interior-finishes markets. As 2020 continues, the artistic visionary expects color and detail to make a comeback. "Decorative patterns and fiesta colors have returned to the vocabulary of decorating. The next decade should be a time of fresh ideas and much more exciting design possibilities than ever before — in interior design as well as art." studioquestel.com, questech.com

OCEAN BLUE GALLERIES

Ocean Blue Galleries is honored to showcase The Secret Art of Dr. Seuss, a selection of compelling artworks from an extensive archive of paintings and sculptures that he kept hidden away at his estate. Part of Ocean Blue's permanent collection, the mind-expanding limited editions have been adapted and reproduced from Geisel's original drawings, paintings and sculptures. oceanblue.gallery
